

Larry Thompson — Live Performance Press Kit

Texas storyteller Larry Thompson brings cowboy poetry, folklore, and campfire stories to life through full-contact, audience-centered performances.

Short Bio

Larry Thompson is an award-winning storyteller, author, and cowboy poet whose performances invite audiences to laugh, listen, and take part in the tale. From mountaintops to firelit campgrounds, Larry's stories have crossed the country from New Mexico to South Carolina, blending cowboy humor, folklore, and a touch of starlight.

His most recent books, Under Starry Skies and Embers & Echoes, continue his tradition of short story collections rooted in the Texas landscape and the timeless act of gathering around a fire. A featured teller at the George West Storyfest and past president of both the San Antonio and Tejas Storytelling Associations, Larry's work has also earned recognition with the Will Rogers Medallion Award for Cowboy Spirit.

He says new stories arrive the way sparks rise from a fire – unexpected, bright, and impossible to ignore. Larry keeps tending that flame, believing that each story told is another chance to connect hearts across the dark.

Testimonials

"Larry Thompson is a delight to work with and listen to. As a storyteller he has a well-earned reputation as a funny fellow, but he's quite capable of developing a serious tale as well. Whether he's telling a tall tale or a true story, he is engaging and always respectful of his audience and his material."

Donna Ingham - Texas Storyteller

"Whether Larry is spinning tales about cowboys, family, wild times, or even his "Oh-Hell" moments, he does it with the kind of grit and polish most can only envy. He's more fun than the law allows."

Hank Roubicek - Radio Host: "What's Your Story?" on Houston's KPFT 90.1 FM
